6.2. The President shall call for the Annual General Meeting, and the call for the Annual General Meeting shall take place no earlier than one month and no later than two weeks before the Annual General Meeting is due to take place.

6.3. The President shall chair the Annual General Meeting.

6.4. Only members of The Economist's Society shall be allowed to attend the Annual General Meeting.

6.5. The agenda of the Annual General Meeting shall include:

6.5.1. Review of the year's activity by the society's President

6.5.2. Review of the society's finances for the year by the society's Treasurer

6.5.3. Elections of the committee members for the coming Academic Year.

6.6. Any additional items to be added to the agenda of the Annual General Meeting shall be left up to the discretion of the President and the Chairperson.

7. Elections

7.1. The President shall call for elections, and the call for elections shall take place no earlier than one month and no later than two weeks before the Annual General Meeting is due to take place.

7.2. The President and the Chairperson shall preside over the electoral process in its entirety.

7.3. Members who are interested in standing for elections shall apply to the society within a week of the call for elections.

7.3.1. Members shall be allowed to apply for multiple positions, stating their order of preference, but shall only be allowed to contest one position during the Annual General Meeting.

7.4. The Board of the society shall interview members who have applied to stand for elections before finalising the list of candidates who will stand for elections during the Annual General Meeting.

7.4.1. Through this interview process, the Board shall ensure that no more than four individuals contest each position during the Annual General Meeting.

7.4.2. The Board shall also ensure that no individual is a candidate for more than one position during the Annual General Meeting.

7.5. Till the names of the final candidates are announced by the Board, applicants are not allowed to campaign as a candidate for the election, and may be disqualified from running in the elections, subject to the discretion of the Board.

7.6. The procedure for elections during the Annual General Meeting is as follows:

7.6.1. The General Secretary shall be responsible for keeping time for the electoral process held during the Annual General Meeting.

7.6.2. The order in which the various positions are put to a vote during the Annual General Meeting shall be decided upon by the President and the Chairperson.

7.6.3. With the exception of candidates contesting the post of President who shall each be allowed to give a speech of up to three minutes in duration, all other candidates shall each be allowed to give a speech of up to two minutes in duration.

7.6.3.1. The order in which candidates shall give their respective speeches shall be decided alphabetically according to the first letters of the candidates' last names. In the event that two or more candidates contesting the same post share the same first letter in their last names, the second letter shall be used, and so on and so forth.

- 7.6.4. After each candidate has given his or her speech, the floor shall be opened for questions to be posed by members present at the Annual General Meeting to the candidate.
 - 7.6.4.1. With the exception of candidates contesting the post of President who shall each be allocated up to two minutes to answer questions posed to them by the floor, all other candidates shall be allocated one minute to answer questions posed to them by the floor.
 - 7.6.4.2. Time expended by members posing questions to the candidate shall not be considered within the time allocated to the candidate to answer questions.
 - 7.6.5. In the event if there is only one candidate contesting a position, then the alternative option will be Re-Open Nominations (RON).
 - 7.6.6. Voting will take place only after all candidates contesting all positions have been allowed to exercise their allocated speech time.
 - 7.6.7. The candidate who receives the most number of votes shall be declared the winner.
 - 7.6.7.1. In the event that votes are split evenly between the candidates contesting the same position, votes shall be re-cast a maximum of three times, before the President shall, with advice from the Board, exercise his or her right to cast a tie-breaking vote to produce a winner.
 - 7.6.7.2. If RON is given the majority vote, then nominations will be held immediately after the vote count. Members are given the discretion to refuse a nomination. In the event that there are new nominations, the candidates will follow the similar election procedure stated in the Constitution.
 - 7.6.7.3. If there are no new nominations, then the sole candidate will be allowed to undergo an additional round of question and answer, after which, voting will commence again. In the event that RON is given the majority vote, then the position will be declared vacant.
 - 7.6.8. Voting slips will be kept for one week after the election, after which they will be destroyed.
 - 7.6.9. In the event of a vacant position, the newly elected Board for the next academic year will have the discretion to delegate the responsibilities stated in the Constitution amongst themselves, or nominate a member to hold the position.
8. This constitution shall be passed with the consent of two-thirds majority of members present at the society 2014 Annual General Meeting.
 9. This Constitution shall be binding on all society officers and shall only be amended by consent of two-thirds majority of the members present at an Annual General Meeting.
 - 9.1. Any amendments shall be submitted to the Board of the society within one week of the call for the Annual General Meeting.
 - 9.2. If there are amendments to the Constitution submitted to the Board, the President shall ensure that the corresponding item is added to the agenda for the Annual General Meeting.
 10. This constitution has been approved and accepted as the Constitution for the University College London Economist's Society.
